

GenAI in the Writing Center: Perils, Possibilities, and Policies

When:

Thursday, April 4th, 2024, 2:00 PM via Zoom

Presented by:

Kevin Dvorak is a Professor and the Executive Director of the Writing and Communication Center (WCC) at Nova Southeastern University in Davie, FL.

Eric Mason is an Associate Professor in the Department of Communication, Media, and the Arts at NSU, and a faculty coordinator with the WCC. He teaches a range of courses focused on writing and design, and has been teaching students to use AI since 2019.

Abstract:

Generative AI has had a broad impact across multiple industries and practices, and faculty and administrators in educational institutions continue to question how to integrate it ethically into curricula and operations. Writing centers can serve a critical function in how students and faculty approach GenAI technologies in ways that don't impede learning. Come talk with a faculty member and administrator from the Writing and Communication Center at Nova Southeastern University, where they share their efforts creating an AI learning community based in their writing center dedicated to guiding university conversations and policies regarding GenAI.

Registration Information:

Go to: <https://southeasternwritingcenter.wildapricot.org/event-5660952>

FREE for all SWCA members and a small fee for other parties (donations welcome)

Visit <http://southeastwritingcenter.org/webinar> for more info and to RSVP to get the url.

Note: If, after registering, you do not receive a confirmation email with the Zoom link, contact the SWCA DCD at swca.dcd@gmail.com.